

Fairy House

	Fairy Houses Tracy Kane What would happen if you built a house for the fairies to live in? Would they come to visit? Kristen is in for a surprise when she sets out to build a fairy house in the woods. Nature wants to get in on the act with her own special cast of characters! Follow Kristen's story of discovery to its enchanting conclusion. A special section on how to get started with your own fairy house is also included.
	Backyard Fairies Phoebe Wahl They MUST be. Who else could have braided the dog's hair? Who else could be playing that faint music in the air? And who else could've made those mysterious circles in the grass? So thinks a little girl as she sets out into the woods in her backyard searching for the elusive little creatures. Although readers can see them, as hard as she looks, the fairies are always just out of view for our heroine. In the end, it's clear (to the girl AND to readers) that there is magic all around, even when it's hidden in plain sight.
	Fairy Houses...Everywhere! Barry & Tracy Kane From rustic dwellings to fairy mansions, this whimsical collection of photographs depicts fairy habitats in various places—from woods and parks to backyard gardens and the beach—and encourages children to explore nature using creativity and imagination.
	Fairy Science Ashley Spires Esther the fairy doesn't believe in magic. But fairies are all about magic, despite Esther's best efforts to reveal the science of their world. No matter how she and her bird, Albert, explain that rainbows are refracted light rather than a path to gold, or that mist is water evaporating rather than an evil omen, or the importance of the scientific method, her fairymates would rather just do magic. So when the other fairies' solution to helping a dying tree is to do a mystical moonlight dance, Esther decides to take it upon herself to resuscitate the tree . . . with the scientific method, some hypothesizing, a few experiments and the heady conclusion that trees need sunlight to live! But while Esther manages to save the tree, she can't quite change the minds of her misguided fairymates . . . or can she?
	One large Fairy Door One small Fairy Door One bridge One ladder    One window
Mini Playhouse kit	Bag of Feathers, rocks and sea shells Beads, and buttons Pink glitter starred netting, white tulle, blue tulle Ladybugs - (16) Two small wooden bird houses

The books and items in this kit belong to Early Literacy, Learning Services. They are loaned for classroom use only. Please remember to return all items in good condition to Learning Services. Any items missing will be replaced and billed to the school directly.